The removals are limited, though; a post from DHS official Tricia McLaughlin that basically makes the same claims but that wasn't cited in McIver's motion (and doesn't happen to mention McIver herself) is still up.

In a bizarre political stunt, as a bus of detainees entered the security gate of Delaney Hall Detention Center, a group of protestors, including 2 members of US Congress, stormed the gate and broke into the detention facility. The members, Robert Menendez Jr. and Bonnie Watson Coleman + multiple protestors holed up in a guard shack, the first security check point.

This illegal breaking and entering of a detention facility puts the safety of our law enforcement agents and the detainees at risk.

Members of Congress are not above the law and cannot illegally break into detention facilities. Had these members requested a tour, we would have facilitated a tour of the facility. This is an evolving situation.
